DESCRIPTION

This small collection consists of three folders. The first folder holds three manuscripts: "Arizona Eighties," describes life in Southern Arizona including mining, stagecoaches, and Apaches (this manuscript is attributed to George Truman in MS 0795); "The Killing of Frenchman 'Joe'" recalls an Apache raid in Bisbee which led to the death of the unnamed Frenchman and George Todenworth; "Sentenced to Death for a Refinement of Our Civilization" is a vague retelling of the family history and death of "John Blank," who is said to be related to Levi Scott. The second folder has two pieces of correspondence, one about a strong box found at the Zellner sawmill in 1942. The third folder has a page of reminiscences of a stagecoach driver who discusses John Ringo and Sandy King; there is also a travel diary from a 1903 month-long trip to Mexico.
