HISTORICAL NOTE

The Monarch Lead Company was a Nevada based corporation with company offices located in Chloride, Arizona. Chloride is in the Wallapai Mining District in Mohave County and about 20 miles north of Kingman. The mining area was one of the earliest in the Arizona area with chloride silver ore discovered in the early 1860s. By 1900 Chloride had a population of over 2,000 but declined sharply after the 1940s and the closing of many of the mines in the area. The cover letter to the question and answer sheet to stockholder in the collection indicates that the company owned both a lead mill (approaching completion) and a mine. The concentrator at the mill was scheduled to commence operations on New Year's Day. An early letter refers to the lead mine on the property as currently operating only pump water from the mine at the present time. Another letter sites the depressed stock prices for all metals and the company stock selling at 20 cents per share. The company letter states how they look forward in the near future to the rise of metal prices and the reopening of operations at the company property [as America enters the Great Depression period].
