BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Territorial governor of Arizona from 1902 to 1905, Alexander O. Brodie was also a Rough Rider. He graduated from West Point and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the regular army and served in Idaho and Arizona. He settled in Prescott and worked as chief engineer of the Walnut Grove Dam. He served as recorder of Yavapai County and in 1898 was the Republican nominee for territorial delegate but was defeated. He helped to organize the Rough Riders in 1898 and entered service as a major. He served with Theodore Roosevelt and was wounded at the battle of Las Guasimas. When the war was over, Brodie returned to Arizona and continued to work as an engineer. He was appointed Governor in 1902 and served until 1905 when he resigned. He continued in the army until his retirement in 1912.
