WYNNE BROWN

Pima County, Appointed 2021

Born in the Midwest, Wynne Brown is a writer/editor/graphic designer who has lived in Europe, the American South, the East Coast, and Australia. Her degrees include a bachelor's degree in studio art from Skidmore College, an interdisciplinary master's in biology/scientific illustration from University of Arizona, and a masters in communications from University of Tennessee. In 2000, she moved gratefully back to Tucson. Along the way, she has also worked as a pizza waitress, carpenter's assistant, scientific illustrator (specializing in spider genitalia), college instructor, journalist, copy editor, and curriculum developer. She is a published poet and the author of the award-winning books "More Than Petticoats: Remarkable Arizona Women" and "The Falcon Guide to Trail Riding Arizona", and the co-editor of "Cave Creek Canyon: Revealing the Heart of Arizona's Chiricahua Mountains". Her biography, "The Forgotten Botanist: Sara Plummer Lemmon's Life in Science and Art", will be published in Fall 2021 by the University of Nebraska Press. She serves as president of the Chiricahua Regional Council, spent eight years on the Friends of Cave Creek Canyon board, and volunteered for ten years as a wildlife tracker with Sky Island Alliance.

At this stage of my life I am ready to give back to the state that has given me so much. I believe in AHS's mission of "Connecting people through the power of Arizona's history," and I also believe in the power of stories to help connect people of all backgrounds and interests.
